“Speaking with those who create our laws gave me a greater understanding of how our government works and how lawmakers tackle the critical issues of the day.”

Joseph Flynn, REC Youth Tour delegate from William Monroe High School

Senator Lyndon Baines Johnson inspired the Youth Tour when he addressed the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA) Annual Meeting in Chicago in 1957. The Senator and future president declared, "If one thing goes out of this meeting, it will be sending youngsters to the national capital where they can actually see what the flag stands for and represents."

In 1958, a rural electric cooperative in Iowa sponsored the first group of 34 young people on a weeklong study tour of the nation's capital. Later that same year, another busload came to Washington from Illinois. The idea grew and other states sent busloads of young people throughout the summer. By 1959, the "Youth Tour" had grown to 130 youths.

In 1964, the NRECA began to coordinate joint activities among the state delegations and suggested that co-op representatives from each state arrange to be in Washington, D.C. during Youth Tour week. The first year of the coordinated tour included approximately 400 young people from 12 states. Word of the program has continued to spread and today, more than 1,800 young people and their chaperones participate in the Youth Tour every year.

In the 1960's, both Virginia Electric Cooperative and Northern Piedmont Electric Cooperative came to understand the importance of the newly created National Rural Electric Washington Youth Tour. Not only could high school students learn about electric cooperatives, the legislative process, and meet with their peers from across the country, they would also learn a valuable life lesson. Through this once in a lifetime experience, these students would later become concerned community citizens better aware of the issues facing their communities. Rappahannock Electric Cooperative has continued to recognize this value and maintained its support of Youth Tour. Since 1980 alone, more than 300 students representing their communities and REC have taken part in this experience. You can add to the Youth Tour legacy and make a difference in your community.

“I could not have been prepared for the amazing experiences I encountered. From the first day on we had one thing after another. Youth Tour provides once in a lifetime opportunity!”
